This day, November 25 is declared by the United Nations General Assembly as the International Day to Eliminate Violence Against Women, to make the world a better and equitable place for women to live in. This programme marks an essential step by the P.G. Section of the Department of English as the students as young women voice forth their opinion through literary and social references that remains known but never voiced forth for an argument before. The premise of the day is to raise awareness around the world that women are subjected to multiple forms of violence, furthermore, one of the aims of the day and the presentation was to highlight that the scale and true nature of the issue is often hidden.
- OUTCOME: As a programme that intends a message on human rights, equality and eradication of violence against women, the chief outcome of the said presentation was the responsibility taken up by the senior students of the college, the P.G. English students to question, argue, present and discuss the past and present modes of violence that remain at the backdrop of the societal basis. Such awareness programmes provide an in depth realization and revisitation of facts, data and to justify that some measures become mandatory to immediately put an end to the rising statistics. The programme was chiefly successful to raise awareness among other female students and provide consciousness to them.
